

LOOK THE PART AND SHAPE UP WITH STYLE IN 2017

Dorina comes to the UK

NOTHING makes you feel better about yourself like new undies. And luckily for us, German lingerie brand Dorina launches in the UK today.

The company's ethos is "We fit your world", meaning there really is something in its range for every woman.

That includes everyday basics to sexy styles, plus a Curve collection.

The Dorina brand also includes swimwear.

So browse at stockists Figleaves and Asos for your new underwear fix.

RI Active for men

RIVER ISLAND launches a men's fitness range today.

The RI Active 14-piece collection features stylish training gear that's perfect for a New Year exercise regime.

Maximum comfort and stretch means an end to your excuses for not working out as microfibre fabric works to keep you cool during your gym session. And they are stylish too, with geometric prints and splashes of colour.

Model and fitness guru Roger Frampton, right, is the face of the campaign, and if it is good enough for him...

A happy you year

ARE you really determined that this time a new year actually does mean a new you?

Then you are in luck - because the high street is fit to burst with ways to get into shape in style.

New activewear collections for both you and your man mean you can look the part in the gym at the very least.

Plus there is a new undies brand and a range of wedding dresses, too.

So there are simply no excuses!

Here JOELY CHILCOTT picks out the pieces to make 2017 the year you look your best.

Rosie for Autograph Active

BRITISH model Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, right, is back with a 14-piece activewear collection for Marks & Spencer.

The shapely leggings, feminine crop tops and must-have vests are more technical than ever, with new fabric for increased performance. The range is flattering too, with a minimal look to help you feel confident and supported.
